CL Yachts set to debut at the Newport International Boat Show
The buzz-worthy performance brand will display its popular CLB72 model in Rhode Island

The luxury performance yacht brand making waves within the industry, CL Yachts, is gearing up to mark another company first – this time debuting at the Newport International Boat Show in Rhode Island, September 12-15, 2019.

CL Yachts' popular CLB72 model will be on display at the Bannister South Docks location during what has become known as one of America's largest and most dynamic in-water boat shows.

CL Yachts officially launched at the Miami Yacht Show in February this year to much industry acclaim. The brand fuses engineering prowess, design innovation, and state-of-the-art technology to create unique luxury performance vessels that go beyond the expectations of discerning modern explorers.

The innovation-lead company has already seen sales of their CLB72 model in both Florida and internationally, and is excited to showcase the brand, and their best-selling cruiser, to a new audience in Rhode Island.

"Following the first introduction, and consequent success, of CL Yachts in Florida, we look forward to venturing to the North East region of the States and entering into what is a new market for us," says Martin Lo, director of CL Yachts' parent company, Cheoy Lee Shipyards. “We see the Newport International Boat Show as a pivotal way to connect with knowledgeable yacht enthusiasts, and allow us the opportunity to present a luxury performance experience that we believe is truly unparalleled.”

Built upon the combined expertise of naval architect Howard Apollonio and leading marine structural engineer firm Gurit, the CLB72 utilizes state-of-the-art technology. Highlights include a resin-infused, composite hull, a foam-cored monocoque structure and strategic use of carbon fiber which creates an optimal strength-to-weight ratio. Other advanced offerings include a gyro stabilization, an active interceptor system, and a CZONE monitoring system. When it comes to performance, the vessel always offers a smooth ride, delivering a highly efficient fuel consumption rate combined with impressive top speeds of up to 31 knots.

Design-wise, the CLB72 fuses elegance and warmth. The boat champions comfortable lounging spaces that are meticulously optimized to entertain guests and connect families. Familiar interior elements are reinterpreted with amplified sophistication to beautifully combine comfort and luxury, while expansive windows, contemporary detailing, and first-class amenities further elevate the cruising experience.

Not on display during the Newport Rhode Island Show, but equally compelling, are CL Yachts’ two other luxury performance models. The first is the CLA76; a true athlete, this is the sleek successor to parent company Cheoy Lee’s popular Alpha Express Series. Showgoers and media also will be treated to a “sneak preview” of final renderings of the second yacht in Newport before her official unveiling in November: the new CLB88, designed in collaboration with internationally celebrated designer Jozeph Forakis. Totally original, she is a modern reinterpretation of the classic motor yacht.
